March for Meals

Chief Adams and his children delivered meals to seniors in the Lincoln Area on Friday, March, 25th for Community Action.

"The Peelian Principles"

There are nine basic principles that are often referred to as "The Peelian Principles." The Peelian principles, not only have direct connections to policing in today's world, but often the nine principles are cited as the basic foundation for current law enforcement organizations and community policing throughout the world.

The seventh Peelian Principle, "Police, at all times, should maintain a relationship with the public that gives reality to the historic tradition that the police are the public and the public are the police; the police being only members of the public who are paid to give full-time attention to duties which are incumbent on every citizen in the interests of community welfare and existence."

Without the public cooperation in every law enforcement activity, it often leaves the police empty handed as people do not want to get involved in the process that was established by our fore fathers years ago. We need the public to step forward to help and support us as we help and support the public in everything we do. It is time to cast off these notions of "tattle telling" and "snitching" that is being groomed into our youth and making it difficult for police to serve our community.
